Another Suit Filed In U. S. Court

Judge Sater sustained Attorney Turner by his decision last Saturday when the attorneys for the Geiger-Jones Company asked for an injunction against the attorney general rendering an opinion on the "blue sky" law. Hall was restrained from revoking the license until the case is heard upon its merits on Saturday, Nov. 27, when three U. S. judges will sit in Cincinnati. Judge Sater held that any damage that might fall against the company through publicity of a hearing in court would stand against the company, they being the plaintiff's in the suit.

The company also attacks the "blue sky" law as unconstitutional and will endeavor to break down the law that was passed to secure purchasers of stock. For years Ohio was a fertile field for the sale of worthless stock and to protect investors the blue sky law was passed and has been in force about two years.

Monday a new suit was filed in the U. S. court by Don C. Coultrap, of Franklin, Pa., who asks that the attorney general be restrained from giving such an opinion as mentioned in the first suit. All other allegations are about the same.

It is thought that such a suit was necessary on the part of the company as Coultrap is an agent out of this state. The attorney general contends that the company had no standing in the U. S. court. To get around this an agent out of the state brings a similar suit on the grounds that he is conducting an interstate business.

Coultrap is a brother-in-law of E. S. Long, of Dayton, who is first vice president of the company. He has resided in Franklin about 18 months. The decision in this case is being watched closely not only by clients of the Geiger-Jones Company but all the financial and business interests of the state. If the law is held unconstitutional speculators will be free to do as they please and investors will be at their mercy.

LECTURE COURSE.

The Lecture Course committee announces the sale of season tickets on Saturday, November 27. The tickets will be sold this season on the same plan as last year. The canvass will be made in one day when the whole community will be asked to purchase tickets. Have your money ready when the solicitors call so that you will not keep him waiting. A day or so previous the booklets will be mailed so that everyone will be familiar with the course. If you should not receive one call at Richard's drug store.

The first number comes on Dec. 14, the American Male Quartette. The other numbers are as follows: The Ravens of New Zealand; Miss Beryl Buckley reader; Dr. McKeever, lecturer; Schlicker Orchestra; Dr. Bradford, lecturer.

Tickets are at usual $1.00 each, affording a winter's entertainment for nominal sum. Every home in the township should be represented.

CARD OF THANKS.

"Inasmuch as we have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." In the only word that can in any measure express our feeling toward the people of Cedarville, and the Cedarville charges.

Affectionately,
Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patton and Helen

The Statesman's Twins.
"How many children have you?" asked the reporter.

"One, a daughter," replied the statesman proudly.

"But I heard that you had three," protested the man of letters.

"Oh, two of them are twins, and they're paired, you know!" explained the representative of the people—Philadelphia Ledger.

Liberty Bell Attracts Crowd.

The Liberty bell being returned to Philadelphia for being on exhibit at the San Francisco exposition attracted considerable attention as the return trip was made.

It was well into the night when the special train arrived here but the crowd braved the raw wind and waited patiently until about 10:30.

The S. of V. band furnished inspiring music and kept the crowd in good humor. When the train stopped there was a mighty wave of cheers. Gov. Willis and his staff accompanied the special across the state.

This is the second of three times the bell has passed through here but the first time it was made.

The following facts about the bell will be of interest:

First cast in 1753 from a model made by order of Henry III. In the 18th century, in memory of Edward the Confessor.

Is made of bronze.

Recast in Philadelphia in 1793.

Weight, 2,089 pounds.

Height, four feet.

Circumference, three inches.

Circumference at crown, seven feet, six inches.

Circumference at tip 12 feet.

Diameter at lip five feet.

Clapper, three feet, two inches long.

First ringer, Andrew McNair.

Last ringer, Thomas Downing.

Cost about $450.

UNIVERSAL PEACE

This nation is now in the midst of a controversy as to how best to promote universal peace. That question we will leave for diplomats to discuss, but peace within nations is no less important than peace between nations and it is heavily laden with prosperity for every citizen within our commonwealth.

Many leading politicians and officials of political parties have declared war upon business and no cabinet effort has been made to bring about peace.

Many men have stood in high places and bellowed "universal peace" but have done nothing to bring it about.

Let us by all means have peace, but peace, like charity, should begin at home.

Let us by all means have peace, but peace, like charity, should begin at home.

FAIRBANKS THEATRE

"It Pays to Be Nice" will be the attraction at the Fairbanks Theatre, Springfield, on Wednesday, December 2, when the press agent puffing will be busy every to invite interest in this play.

Everyone who reads the papers and newspapers has been told the piece, which had a breaking run for farces, at the Chicago Theatre, New York, and is now enjoying a second triumph in Chicago.

The title of the play is true to business experience as the play itself is a triumph.

Here is a rich, rosy and glowing force of rapid-fire action and a splendidly amusing through line.

It is the sort of play that goes down with a splash and is most enjoyable and amusing.

Every home who has ever bought an article, from a safety pin to a playing piano, will get dozens of laughs from "It Pays to Be Nice."

The company will be seen at Springfield, an excellent one, each number of which was selected personally by the producer.

The production is exactly the original New York City one and complete and in every detail.

"It Pays to Be Nice" is one of the theatrical comedies which should not be missed.

THURSDAY, December 2nd, MAUDIE.

On Thursday, December 2nd, America's best loved and most popular actress, Maudie Adams, will appear at the Fairbanks Theatre, Springfield, on Tuesday, December 1st.

She will appear in the play "The Little Minister," a delightful play of the day.

This season Maudie Adams has received "The Little Minister" and wherever she appears she has broken into the hearts of the people.

FATTENING FOODS.

White bread is fattening because we rarely digest it completely. Starchy foods are quite unaffected by the gastric juices which digest the meats.

Their digestive ferments are obtained chiefly from the saliva in the mouth, which therefore should be thoroughly mixed with each mouthful before swallowing.

But white bread is so soft and lacking in substance that we unconsciously swallow it long before it has had a fair chance to become sufficiently fermented with the digestive saliva.

The result is delayed digestion (if digestion takes place at all), and at the best the starch is very apt to be converted into disfiguring, unwanted and unhealthy fat.

Churchgoers Near Panic.

An extraordinary panic occurred recently in St. Woolas church, Newport, Monmouthshire, England, when, during the rendering of a sacred cantata by the choir, the electric light suddenly failed and the building was plunged in darkness.

The startled singers, were silent. Then women screamed with alarm, and made for the doors. A serious panic seemed likely, though the vicar assured the congregation that all would be right within a few minutes.

The fears of the people were finally quieted by the choir beginning to sing again through the darkness the old hymn, "Aberystwyth." Meanwhile churchwardens groped their way to the emergency gas burners, and gradually one by one lights sprang into brightness, and the service was quietly resumed.

"It Pays to Be Nice" is one of the theatrical comedies which should not be missed.

THE NERVE OF 'EM.

Cedarville is on the map though it wasn't intended that we should be. If the account of the Liberty Bell demonstration in the Xenia Gazette is correct.

The esteemed Gazette states that by the intervention of Congressman Fess and Governor Willis the consent of the party was secured to slow down the train to a low rate of speed at this junction while stops were to be made at South Charleston and London.

If what was done by the Governor and Congressman is correct we are much obliged to them for the favor. But it happened that the train made a regular stop of five minutes while a large crowd cheered. Evidently someone disobeyed the Fess-Willis orders, for such were ever recognized.

Just another case of the Yellow Springs congressman seeking cheap publicity, in having the train slowed down for the benefit of Cedarville people. Some people have the nerve of the brass monkey and so inced have local people been that they have not hesitated to name names.

Mr. H. A. Townsley has been carrying his right arm aching due to an accident to the little finger several days ago. While sitting in a camp chair the finger was caught and nearly severed.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By R. C. McFarland, Acting Director of Sunday School Course of Study, Bible Institute of Chicago.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 28

AMOS, THE FEARLESS PROPHET.

LESSON TEXT---Amos 5:1-15. GOLDEN TEXT---He that hath my word let him speak my word faithfully.---John 8:32.

Among the prophets Amos bulks large. His message (R. C. 1917) is most thoroughly modern and its application to our present day problems deserves careful consideration. Read the entire book prayerfully. Chapters 1 and 2 summarize the sins of the nation and of Israel. 2-5 contain addresses of the prophet: 7:1-10 records his visions and the conclusion, 9:11-15 is a Messianic prophecy. The modern prophet of social service and those who neglect a proper consideration of the Bible are both caught to ponder well this passage.

1. Jehovah's Lamentation, vv. 1-3. The words of this lesson are those of Jehovah spoken to the house of Israel, but apply to all people of all ages. Verse one is a prophecy of the nation's grave. Over the Holy City (Luke 13:34; 19:41). Outwardly rich and opulent, in Jehovah's sight the nation had already fallen (v. 2 R. V.) and there is none (present tense) to raise her up. Israel is personified as a maiden sorely wounded. Spoken decades before, Israel did fall and has risen no more. But there is possibility of mercy. There is here a command and a promise and those who obey the command will obtain the promise of life.

To "seek ye me" (v. 4) is to turn the face to him rather than to turn the back. It implies the forsaking of all evil thoughts, yes, our own thoughts and ways and to turn unto him who will abundantly pardon (Isa. 55:6-7; Dent. 30:20). There is life for the most outgrieking and outrageous sinner if he will seek the Lord.

2. The People's Exhortation, vv. 4-9. The places mentioned in verse five had each been made sacred by God's presence and subsequently degraded by idolatry. Bathel especially so. (Gen. 12:8; 28:10-18; 1 Kings 12:29-30). These new religions and the false worshiping were becoming even the pleasure and unwary, hence the warning. We need to beware of the manifold "new cults" lest we depart from the faith of our fathers. America is today standing upon a social and religious crater in many ways similar to ancient Bethel. God is with the summing up (Isa. 1:28-29; Mark 9:42-49) to the impatient or else a minister of grace to those who repent.

Verse six is a suggestion regarding the many counterparts in our own times. In verse 4 Jehovah exhorts the people to "seek him and live." In verse 6 the prophet utters the same cry. Now (v. 8) the appeal is to seek him because to do so is wisdom.

(a) It is he "that maketh the stars, the earth, yes, everything, and it is he that is on his side (Ps. 136). (b) He "showeth the shadow of death into morning" (R. V.) (see Ps. 30:5). Who can comprehend the vast host of his saints for whom this has been done? (c) He "maketh the day dark with the night" (R. V.). This he is doing repeatedly. The God who set the day in its turn can also turn it upside down. He has done it both past and present.

(II) The Word of Application, vv. 10-15. Sinners always hate the man who rebukes their sin. Scripture is not needed to prove this fact, for we see it today. We are specifically warned against the grating of the wicked (Isa. 5:23) and any true and upright witness for Christ knows that he is abhorred by those whose lives are crooked. (John 8:12, 20). Verse 11 (A. V.) sounds very much like many of the strictures that are being made regarding the acts of some of the modern sects. Our country is a hotbed of materialism built from the proceeds of oppression deserted by the ones who anticipated their occupancy. How few fortunes are really expended and enjoyed by those who make the accumulation. The manner by which we accumulate, our conduct towards the poor, our attitude towards the bribe, and our neglect of the needy and the poor is all known to God. (v. 12). "Therefore," even as today in our courts, even as iniquity is rapidly growing in the earth, about all the present man can do is to look to his peace, to wait upon God and watch for him. He it is who must call with trumpet voice (Isa. 58:1) even though he does not speak with human lips. The fourth exhortation to "seek" (v. 14) is to search after the good, though the time be an "evil one."

True goodness is to "hate evil and love the good" (Ex. 20:17; Rom. 10:9). By this we may know if we really hate sin, if we are truly righteous. We have churches and lack reverence; we have preachers but are not sufficiently conscious of our weak morals; we hear sermons yet our faith is flabby.

We can get on without armies and navies, airships and submarines, kings and legislators, yet lacking in all of the conveniences of modern civilization, but we cannot exist, much less grow, flourish and triumph without God.

For extinguishing oil fires where water is both ineffective and dangerous, frothy liquids have been recommended. In a late test near Hamburg a mixture of one quart each of caustic soda and alum solutions yielded 18 quarts of a yellowish-white foam, having a density of 0.14, and this could be sucked up and distributed like water by a hose. A basement of 20 square feet, filled with benzine to 20 inches, was fired, and was extinguished in 78 seconds with 15 gallons of the frothy mixture, and in 4 minutes the benzine tank, six feet in diameter and nine feet high, was extinguished in 13 seconds. The benzine was little affected, burning as usual after removal of the froth.

A PANAMA DELUGE

On the Isthmus They Know What a Real Rainstorm Means.

LIKE SOLID WALLS OF WATER

It Came Down in Torrents So Dense That the Rest of the World Seemed to Be Blotted Out—One Three Hour Downpour That Established a Record.

Before us spread the repelling, powerful, sun shimmering Pacific. Across the bay, clear as an aching, lay Panama, backed by Ancon hill. In regular cadence the waves swept in on the sands. Such was the scene described by Mr. Harry A. Franck in "Zone Policeman 88" when he and three comrades went one day for a swim in the ocean.

We dived in, keeping an eye out for the sharks, although we knew they never came so far in and probably would not bite if they did. The sun blazed down white hot from a cloudless sky. The lieutenant and Sergeant Jack had not been able to come, but we arranged the races and jumps in the sand, for all that, and after our swim went in with a will and—

A raindrop fell, then a few more, then many more. Before we had finished the hundred yard dash it was undeniably raining. Half a minute later "bucketfuls" would have been a weak simile. The blanket of water blotted out Panama and Ancon hill across the bay, blotted out the distant bathers, then even those close at hand. We remained under water for a time—to keep dry. But the rain whipped our faces as with thousands of stinging lashes. We crawled out and dashed blindly up the bank toward the sawmill, the rain beating on our all but bare skins. It felt as if it might feel to stand in Miraflores locks and let the sand pour down upon us from sixty feet above. When at last we stumbled under cover and up the stairs to where our clothing hung it was as if a weight of many tons had been lifted from our shoulders.

The sawmill was without side walls and consisted only of a sheet iron roof and floors. The storm pounded on the roof with a roar that made the sign language necessary. It was as if we were surrounded on all sides by solid walls of water and forever shut out from the outer world—if, indeed, that had survived.

Sheets of water slashed in farther and farther across the floor. We took to bedding boards and under saw benches—the militant storm hunted us out and wetted us by its "the admiral" and I climbed up and picked ourselves gray on the forty five degree beams up under the roaring roof. The angry water gathered together in columns and swept in and up to soak us.

At the end of an hour the downpour had increased some hundred per cent. That was the day when little harmless streamers tore themselves apart into great gorges and left their pathetic little bridges alone and deserted out in the middle of the gulf. That was the famous May 12, 1912, when Ancon recorded the greatest rainfall in her history—72.8 inches, virtually all, within three hours.

Three of us were ready to surrender and swim home through it. But there was "the admiral" to consider. He was dressed clear to his scarfpin, and Panama tailors fear horrible holes in a policeman's uniform. So we waited and dodged and squirmed into smaller holes for another hour and grew steadily wetter.

At length dusk began to fall, but instead of drying with the day the fury of the storm increased. It was then that "the admiral" capitulated, scolding plainly in league with his tailor. Wigwagging his decision to us, he led the way down the stairs and dived into the world awash.

Well? We had not taken the third step before we were streaming like fire hoses. There was nearly an hour of it—splashing knee deep through what had been little, dry, sandy hollows; steering by guess, for the eye could make out nothing fifty yards ahead, even before the cheese thick darkness fell; bowed like nonagenarians under the burden of water, staggering back and forth as the storm caught us crosswise or the earth gave way under us. "The admiral's" patent leather shoes—but why go into painful details?

The wall of water was as thick as ever when we fought our bowed and weary way up over the railway bridge. When we had gathered force for the last dash we plunged toward our several goals. As the door of 111 slammed behind me the downpour suddenly slackened. As I paused before my room to drain it stopped raining.

Dancing. Dancing was originally a mode of expressing religious feeling, for instance, David's dancing before the Ark, and was often used in military displays, though the Romans, like our statesmen, usually had their dancing done for them by hired slaves.—London Answers.

Fire Chief Wallace has completed forty-six years of service in Cleveland's fire department and a "six-ty-six" won't resign.

The Earl of Powis still keeps his name plate brightly polished on the entry door of his mansion in Berkeley square, London. He is the only member of the peerage to indicate his name on the door.

Dr. Joel Stebbins, on whom the Draper gold medal in astrophysics has just been conferred by the National Academy of Sciences, chiefly because of his success in measuring the light of stars more accurately than anybody else has ever done, is a graduate of the University of California, class of 1908. He is now head of the department of astronomy in the University of Illinois.

Rear Admiral W. S. Benson, who has been appointed chief of naval operations, assuming the duties of Rear Admiral Fluke, who recently resigned his staff position, is an officer of experience, and in the newly created position will be the closest official adviser of Secretary of the Navy Daniels. The office is intended to formulate practical plans for increasing the efficiency of the navy.
